—Bierstadt has lately finished a large picture of Mount Hood in Oregon—n mountain eighteen thousand feet high, standing by itself in majestic isolation. Apparently one-half of the mountain, says the N. Y. Review, is covered with snow. In the fore-ground is the Columbia river with its wood-ed banks, while at the left of the picture is a shaded plain, on which a herd of deer is feeding. The vast size of this painting, its fine contrast between the life and verdure of the foreground, and the white, icy deso-lation of the mountain itself, and the superb coloring, and manipulation, all com-bine to make this one of the most striking landscapes in the annals of American art.

I will give but one of the many incidents of our Libby experience. It was a hot summer day, and we were all depressed, when the news came that Grant had been terribly whipped and driven back in confusion from Vicksburg, and that a great battle has occurred at some obscure place in Pennsy vania, called Gettysburg, where Meade had received a Waterloo defeat, and Lee had captured forty thousand prisoners. The rebel papers indulged in a good many speculations as to where their authorities constitutions. guard these prisoners and how they coul-feed them without starving the people of Richmond. That was a sad, silent night in Libby; and even the usual evening prayer-meeting was clouded with despondenc-and doubt.

How suddenly the very atmosphore seemed to change. There was cheering and dancing; and somebody shouled "Glory, hallelujah." Upon this hint, Rev. Dr. McCabe, of Ohio, in his clear ringing tones, started Mrs. Howe's impressive hymn: "For mine eyes have seen the glory of the coming of the and every voice in the room joined in the chorus. of Savannah citizens: An officer of General Sherman's army who has had ample opportunity of observation, and knows full well whereof he asserts, told me yesterday, that niuety-nine per cent. of what is said about the loyalty of the people of Savannah is nonsense. He took particular pains to investigate the mat-ter, and after a residence of many weeks in the captured city, came to the conclusion that there were just two loyal men there—one of these is the individual recently made Postmaster of Savanuah, and the other is

Mr. Wiley Woodbridge, who is to be made Collector of the Port.

My informant says the most that can be said in favor of the people of Savannah is, that they are civil, that they are a great improvement on the people of New Orleans, Nashville and Memphis in this respect. But how much of this is due to respect and how how much of this is due to respect and how much to fear and the force of example may be open to discussion. Half starved as thep were when Sherman entered the city, they were still devoted to the source of all their woes, and a literal translation of this feigned "love for the old flag," (though I don't believe they even pretended as much love for it as has been represented) was a love for the corn meal and flour and pork and beef that the old flag represented. One and beef that the old flag represented. One lady who had just received her share of the provisions sent from Philadelphia, told a Federal officer that she wished she could get a chance to divide with her friends in the rebel army; that in fact she would willingly give it all to them if she could, and if she thought they needed it. But there are two other ideas or terms that require this uniting or reconciling word. Into whose ear, in these days, has not the din come of the contending cries of liberty and law? But ls it not a misconceived strife which makes liberty and law contrary? Where the spirit of the Lord is, Man's freedom, so far Man's freedom, so far our brave patriots breast the storm of rebel our brave patriots breast the storm of rebel our brave patriots breast the storm of rebel patches of Major Generals, and learn that our brave patriots breast the storm of rebel bullets, or charge on their defenses as Gercely and fearlessly as they ever did before black men were suffered to wear the army blue, we are led to wonder if any of the veterans of the old Army of the Potomac are still there. But there is no room for doubt. They are still there. Freed from the baneful influence of the old commander and his satellites, they have come to their senses. They are willing to tight side by side with those who will fight the enemies of their country, whether they be black or white, and they are doing it glorionsly. Under McClellan the whole army was embittered against the administration by the mad-dog cry, "Abolitionist." The mere mention of the negro called forth from the soldier a torcry, "Abolitonist." The mere mention of the negro called forth from the soldier a torrent of invectives. "Lincoln wants to degrade the white man for the sake of the nigger." "I'de see the country sunk before I would fight alongside of a nigger." They took their cue from their leader, and the saturie literature which was freely size of the country which was the saturie literature which was the control of the country which was the country which was the control of the country which was the country was the country which was the country which was the country was

As foolish and wicked were the lying lnfluences which were brought to bear on the army of the Potomac, and as completely army of the Potomac, and as completely and strangely were men's minds perverted. The insane hatred of the African which led the Irish in New York to the fiendish ontbreak, which their friend Seymour so gently deprecated, was a crop from the same planting. The wonder now is why we did not at the very outset call upon the black toen to arm for their liberty. Gen. Jackson's force at the battle of New Orleans was made up of a mixture of nationalities. son's force at the battle of New Orleans was made up of a mixture of nationalities, among which the blacks of New Orleans, and "people of color from St. Domingo" numbered a full proportiou. One seventh of the British attacking force consisted of black soldiers from the West Indies. A detachment of Colonial (black) marines formed a part of the force which vanquished the chivalry of Virginia and Maryland in the attack on Washington in 1814. So shameful was their discomiting that the affair has ever since been known as "the Blahas ever since been known as "the Bla-densburg races." When Admiral Cock-burn's fleet lay in the Chesapeake, hundreds of slaves escaped to the vessels and to Antangier island, who were immediately incorporated into the army, and subsequently rewarded by grants of land in Cauda, Many of them and their descendants are good citizens there now. In more mod-ern times the British have repeatedly had Colonial regiments stationed in Canada. Whoever suggested that the British renadiers' were degraded thereby? THE REBEL GOVERNMENT GAMBLING IN GOLD.—Notwithstanding the sales of gold by the Secretary of the Treasury at one time brought gold from 70 down to 45, it has again gone up to 60 and 65, and that, too, upon sales made on Government account. Notwithstanding the amount of Treasury notes was reduced by the shaving off of one-third, prices went up, and instead of incomey becoming more valuable by its scarcily, the new notes buy less than the old did. Notwithstanding Mr. Trenholm holds six per cent. non-taxable bonds at 136, he cannot sell them at 80. Here we have three important facts which it will do well for Congress to consider.

Gold is still rising and consideration and clearness of vision not to be swerved by a hair, or for an Instant from the straight path of rugged duty before him.

He is free from all bluster and pretense: has the habit of independent observation and thought, and very naturally desires to study the field before him prior to any amnouncement of policy. But his antecedents we know are not repudiated or ignored. And we regard them as an all-sufficient guarantee, as to THE REBEL GOVERNMENT GAMBLING IN Congress to consider.

Gold is still rising and carrying up prices of all other commodities. Shut our eyes as we may, gold is the standard which measures our currency, and daily as gold rises the purchasing value of our notes falls. Notwithstanding the reduction of the currency by shaving one-third, prices have risen, notes have fallen, and the treasury is empty. Six per cent. non-taxable bonds would not go, and the treasury has no money to pay its debts.—[Richmond Enquirer, Feb. 14.]

THE DRAFT.-As the draft did not counmence here on the 15th inst., the limit of time granted for filling quotas by volunteering, in the President's Proclamation of December 19, calling for "three hundred thousand more," many are under the impression that it has been postponed. This is a mistake. The Provost Marshal of this District has received instructions from the Provost Marshal General to prepare at once to proceed with the draft, and report to the War Department when everything was in readiness. At the same time he was instructed to report to the Provost Marshal General what counties or sub-districts had or were rapidly filling their quotas, clearly implying, we think, a purpose not to order the draft in such places as were rapidly filling their quotas.

No order has yet been received by Pro vost Marshal Womack to proceed with the draft in this District, and we believe he will not receive any such order, so far as Jeffer- this day, February 22, Mr. Lawrence Young son county is concerned, if the efforts now being made to fill its quota continue to give promise of success. The Mayor has assured us that the men can be easily enough obtained if a sufficient sum of uroney can be raised for bounties. Let all men, therefore, liable to draft come forward and subscribe to the general draft fund at the Mayor's office. It is the cheapest, and now a pretty sure way of avoiding the draft.

ONE HUNDRED AND FIFTY-SECOND ILLI-Nois .- The 152d Illinois, a new regiment, arrived here yesterday, and left for Nashville. It numbers 950 men, nearly all veterans. This is the third new regiment that has passed through our city within a week for the front, (if the "front" may now be located anywhere southwardly from this.) These new regiments are the first that have been raised under the late call for three hundred thousand men, and will be followed by a number of others. The north west has an abundance of the best material for armies, which will be freely furnished the Government so long as rebellion exists in the South.

THE WESTMINSTER REVIEW .-- We have to acknowledge the receipt from the American publishers of this venerable quarterly, Messrs. L. Scott & Co., New York, of the last number of the new volume No. 163, The improvement in paper and typogra phy of these "reprints" is noticeable. The subjects for the eight leading articles in the January number are: Taine's llistory of English Literature. The Science of Lan guage. Hamlet. The Intellectual Development of Europe. Peace in Poland. Circumstantial Evidence. Whatever is, is Right. Railway Reform, besides the comprehensive Chapter on Contemporary Lite-

TWENTY-SECOND OF FEBRUARY.-Yesterday, the 22d of February, was not generally observed in the city. Some of the business houses on Main street were decorated with flags, and flags were displayed from a number of private residences. The day was very gloomy, and anything but inviting to display, if there was much disposition to manifest patriotic feelings in that way. But little business was transacted at Post Headquarters and the l'rovost Mar- lovers of amusement. shal's office, and at other places for the transaction of Government business.

surance" drew a fair andience last night at the Louisville Theater, notwithstanding the unpleasant state of the weather. To-night Goldsmith's famous comedy, "She Stoops to Conquer" will be played-Mr. Warren as Tony Lumpkin, Miss Josie Orton as Miss Hardcastle, and Miss Mestayer as Mrs. Hardcastle. The laughable farce of "Dunducketty's Picnic" will also be played, in which Mr. Warren and Miss Orton will appear.

We learn that orders have been received from Washington that have put a stop to the forcible enlistment of colored men in this city. We are glad to hear this. There is no state of facts or circumstances that would justify a measure that forces any particular class of men into the army. Colored men stand their chances of being drafted with other men, and that is enough. Besides there are enough of them who are willing to go into the army.

PROVOST ITEMS .- Mrs. Haunah Coyle, who kept a small saloon on Grayson street, was arrested yesterday for selling liquor to soldiers, and sent to the Female Military Mike Mullen, arrested for drunkenness, was yesterday sent to the fortificatious for five days.

Major G. M. Bascom, A. A. G., is temporarily assigned to duty as Assistant Adutant General of the Department.
(Signed) JOHN M. PALMER,

Major General.
Official: G. M. Bascom, Maj. and Ass't Adi't Geueral.

ENLISTMENTS.—Thirty-three men were enlisted yesterday, to be credited on the quota of the city. Oue hundred and twentythree men are expected to arrive here today from other points, to be sworn into the United States service and credited to the city, for the bonnty offered. At this rate, our quota will soon be filled. But it must not be forgotten that subscriptions are needed to the draft fund in order to raise money enough to relieve the city of the draft entirely.

SKIFT AND GAYLORD'S MINSTRELS,-There is no class of amusement more popular than burnt eork. A good troupe of minstrels can always draw full houses in this city. The Rebel Situation is Hopeless. Gen. Sherman Pushing Forward.

Cheering Indications from N. C.

NEW YORK, Feb. 22 .- The Times' Washington special says, The fears of some time orous persons, that Lee will be able to pre cipitate himself on Sherman, and, united with Beanregard, be able to check the ad-vance of that General, are not shared in by either the Government or sensible men here. These persons forget that Grant and his army will have something to say in Lee is closely observed by Grant on every point, and the first intimation he gives of any intention to withdraw from Richmond will be the signal for the tiger spring by Grant. Gen. Grant is perfectly cognizant of every move on the part of his adversary. Versary.

Deserters from Lee's army arrive at the

A distinguished military man to-day pointed out that the present situation of Lee is precisely analagous to that of Napoleon in 1814, when France was invaded by the allies. Notwithstanding he lavished all the resonrees of his incomparable gen-ius to resist the advance, he was pushed and pressed upon by converging forces of his opponents, and was finally compelled to capitulate in his capital.

The indications are that Sherman is push-

The indications are that Sherman is pushing his triumplicant columns straight on Raleigh, which point he will reach early next week. He writes privately that the people of the old North State are prepared to hail the advance of his army, and promptly wheel the State into the Union. Since the fall of Charleston, Wilmington and Mobile are the only ports remaining of the numerous important scaport cities for-merly under rebel rule. Both are doomed to fall, if not already, in our possession. A powerful expedition is directed against both.

The World's Washington special says: Gov. Morgan, in reply to solicitations from influential friends to accept the position of Secretary of the Treasury, yesterday pre-entorily declined it, finally settling all doubts in the matter, so far as he is con-cerned. New England is still opposing the pressure from the West in favor of Mr. Mc-

The Tribune's Washington special says there have been rumors all day of the evacnation of Wilmington, but nothing positive. It is, however, known that, immediately after the fall of Ft. Fisher, the city was parlially evacuated, and it is believed the tire force in that vicinity will join Beaure-gard and endeavor to check Sherman.

gard and endeavor to check Sherman.

If it was not evacutated on Sunday it will be invested before the week is out.

A high official to-day expressed the opinion that Lee can't remain thirty days more at Richmond. He must attack Grant and raise the seige, or fall back to Lynchburg, the only line of retreat now left open.

Baltimore, Feb. 22.—Fort Anderson was captured on Sunday by General Schofield and Admiral Porier. Most of the garrison escaped toward Wilmington. All the guns were left in good condition.

New Mail Boat.—We learn that the enterprising owners of the Louisville and Cincinnati mail line have in course of con-struction, at the latter port, one of the most complete passenger packets that has ever yet plied our waters. She has been nearly a year on the stocks and may be expected to take the track in the mall line early in March. The new boat was designed and constructed especially for the passenger trade between the two cities and passenger trade between the two cities, and will be of great attraction to travelers.
